UNHRC

The Human Rights Council is the principal United Nations intergovernmental body responsible for human rights. . Its role includes strengthening the promotion and protection of human rights around the globe, and making recommendations to address violations of human rights, including gross and systematic violations.

All human beings have the right to express and to live in a free and healthy social environment away from discrimination. This discrimination includes discrimination against children based on the real or perceived sexual orientation or gender identity. With the given agenda we are aiming to focus on said discrimination

Head Chairperson:

Mr Adarsh Kumar Singh

Agenda:

Eliminating Discrimination Against Children and Parents Based on Sexual Orientation and/or Gender Identity.

UNCSW

The United Nations Commission on the Status of Women is dedicated to the promotion of gender equality and empowerment of women. Representatives from member countries identify, discuss, and debate women's concerns in order to accelerate progress toward gender equality.

Emphasizing on the external factors such as climate change and disaster risk which hamper the environment of work, this agenda focuses on providing inclusive growth as well as a stable, sustainable line of work.

Head Chairperson:
Ms Shreya Purdhani

Agenda:

Women's economic empowerment in the changing world of work with special emphasis on climate change and disaster risk reduction policies.

UNEP

The United Nations Environment Programme offers a pathway for environment protection. It is a framework to generate transformational change for people by pulling out the causes of climate change. With the penchant to be the ambassadors of change, UNEP offers people to exercise environmental stewardship & raise the concerns on efficient Environmental action. It sharpens people about the most pressing issues facing the world and empowers them to be the torchbearers of change and sustainability. Highlighting the SDG 13, our agenda creates a sensitivity towards the wise use of resources & pursues the goal of Sustainable Development for Sustenance.
